

Benji Heinke

My name is Benji and I am a visual artist and musician.

Informed by digital manipulation and collage, my work samples imagery ranging from photographs and pattern designs to art history and pop culture. The fusion of these reference points correlates with this 'post-truth' era and the seemingly blurred line between fact and fiction in today's internet saturated world. Through painting, I create otherworldly scenes reflecting the disordered combining of the physical and digital (IRL/URL) in the 21st century. Within the work, an idea of utopia/dystopia is explored, relating to ecological collapse, technological futurism and the distorted state of current affairs.
