

Land Art

Create a piece of free, environmentally friendly art with natural materials, right on your doorstep

What is Land Art? Art that is made within or involving the natural landscape - or made from natural materials.

We would love to see your Land Art, email photos to vanessa@jhg.art or tag @johnhansardgallery on Instagram.

Think About:

What materials will you use?

Where will you make your artwork?

What is the best way to photograph it?

What line or shape will you create?

BE SAFE

Wear Gloves.

Watch out for animal poo.

Do not eat any berries!

Be careful of sharp natural materials.

Wash your hands afterwards.

Here's some ideas...

A line of berries. Look how the sun has made those long shadows!

Berry Circles

Before the berries were picked.

A line of frosty leaves

Mark left by the frozen leaves after it snowed

Artist Examples

Here's some artist examples for inspiration: Andy Goldsworthy, Richard Long, Agnes Denes and a neat video overview of the genre.

Video: The case for Land Art by The Art Assignment (9mins 28 secs).

About the artist Sam Ivin is a photographer and was commissioned by John Hansard Gallery to make new work alongside its exhibition Seaside Photographed. This activity was devised by Sam during his project Weston Shore, where he worked with children and staff from Western Shore Pre School.

More information at www.jhg.art

Artist website www.samivin.com

For large pieces photograph from above, maybe from your bedroom window or higher ground.

A circle of sticks arranged by size.

Pile of frosty leaves on a pond.

Leaf fan, from small to large.

Line of sticks

Stone spiral arranged by colour.